DIVORCED 3 TIMES, MARRIED 3 TIMES, CAN'T STOP FIGHTING

Chicago, Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—Divorced three times from Nathan Salnitsky, each time on grounds of cruelty, Mrs. Bessie Salnitsky, 28, admitted today that "he treats me so good when we're separated I just can't keep from thinking about marrying him again." The Salnitskys were married in 1922, 1925 and 1926. They were divorced in 1925, 1926 and yesterday.

FEDERAL BANK EXAMINERS ARE PUZZLED BY STORY

WORK OVER ONLY NATIONAL BANK CLOSED IN CHICAGO DISTRICT IN 25 YEARS

DON'T KNOW WHETHER TO BELIEVE ROBBERY STORY OF CASHIER JOHN C. MALLOY

Chicago, Jan. 6. —Federal bank examiners, working over records of the only National Bank closed in this district in 25 years, admitted today they were puzzled over the strange story of Assistant Cashier John C. Malloy, who contended the bank was robbed.

"We don't know whether to believe his story or not," said Chief District Examiner Alfred P. Leyburn.

Malloy's story was that four men, posing as examiners, called him to the Lawrence Avenue National Bank on New Year's Day, looted about $50 safety deposit boxes, forced him to fix the time lock so the vault could not be opened until Sunday, then took him to Milwaukee and set him free.

The assistant cashier was held yesterday under $7,500 bonds on a charge of embezzlement of $10,000. Examiners said the amount lost probably would be much larger. It was difficult, they said, to straighten out the records because several important ledger sheets were missing. Malloy said the robbers had used the sheets to wrap up silver coins they stole. The examiners said that was strange as other papers could have been obtained more easily.

An attempt to show that Malloy has spent money in ways not in keeping with his $3,000 annual salary was disclosed yesterday with questioning of Mary C. Curran, 24, telephone operator at the bank.

Officials said Miss Curran admitted going to night clubs with Malloy, who is married, but she denied he had spent money lavishly and said her brother always accompanied her when she went out with the banker.

While the investigators were puzzled over Malloy's story, the banker himself was confident he could prove it true.

"It seems," he said, "that it's sometimes tougher to be held up than it is to do the holdup yourself. Next time I'll ask them to cut me in on it. See, I know all the terms now—learned them from the detectives."

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—Eight men were killed in an explosion in a mine of the Raleigh Wyoming Coal Mining Company at Glenn Rogers, W. Va., today, according to reports telephoned to R. M. Lambie, chief of the department of mines.

Lambie said two mine inspectors named Lee and Stover had taken charge of rescue work. They inspected that shaft yesterday, he said, and remained at the mine club overnight.

Lambie said the cause of the explosion had not been ascertained but that he supposed it resulted from ignition of a gas pocket.

The department of mines later was advised four bodies had been recovered and that rescuers expected to find the other bodies in the second north entry. Names of the dead were not immediately available.

ALMA RUBENS FACES NARCOTIC CHARGE TODAY

BEAUTIFUL SCREEN ACTRESS RELEASED 11 MONTHS AGO FROM HOSPITAL

HAD BEEN PRONOUNCED CURED OF INSIDIOUS DRUG HABIT

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—Alma Rubens, the beautiful screen actress who was released 11 months ago from a state institution and pronounced cured of the drug habit, faced arraignment today on charges of violating the federal narcotic laws.

Officers said they found 120 grains of narcotics in Miss Rubens' purse and in the hem of one of her evening gowns, which they found in her hotel room.

Miss Rubens claimed she had been "framed" by her maid, Ruth Palmer, but authorities released Miss Palmer after checking her story and the one told by the actress.

Miss Rubens was ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Henry Ryan on the double charge of violation of the Harrison narcotics act and the narcotics traffic law.

Miss Palmer was responsible for the investigation which led to Miss Rubens' arrest, reporting to police that Miss Rubens had become angry and torn her coat.

The officers had just decided that the complaint was not sufficient to warrant any action when Miss Rubens appeared at headquarters to claim that her chauffeur, Eddie Tholman, had stolen jewelry she valued at $5,000. After questioning him, police decided he was not guilty and searched Miss Rubens' room.

STREET CAR TRAFFIC MEN AID A COMRADE

CONDUCTORS AND MOTORMEN OF CHICAGO GIVE BLOOD TO INJURED WORKER

DAVID FITZGERALD, HOWEVER, SUCCUMBS TO SHOCK OF ACCIDENT

Chicago, Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—Street car traffic ran wild in places and stopped completely in others as conductors and motormen forgot their work last night in a combined, but vain, effort to aid an injured comrade by giving him blood for him.

The injured man, David Fitzgerald, 29, a conductor, died early today at Keystone hospital. One of his legs was severed and the other so badly mangled amputation was necessary when he was crushed between an automobile and the rear of his car as he was replacing the trolley.

Word of Fitzgerald's accident and the fact that men were needed immediately for blood transfusions spread quickly throughout the section in which he worked.

Motormen shouted it to the crew of other cars as they passed. One crew shouted the news to the men in a car barn as they passed.

To a man, the motormen and conductors of the section forgot their work in their hurry to reach Fitzgerald's bedside. Cars going the wrong direction were left standing in the streets while their crew boarded those going toward the Keystone.

The group of men in the car barn ran out a special car and, forgetting schedules, sped to the hospital.

Within a short time after Fitzgerald arrived at the hospital, there was a long line of men, all in uniforms, waiting to undergo tests to determine were the best subjects for the transfusion operations.

Elmer Otto and Alfred Rodgers were selected and shortly before last midnight, only a short time after the accident, they gave a pint of blood each, but the sacrifice was in vain and the young conductor died a few hours later.

22,000 AUTOMOBILE WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS IN THE DETROIT DISTRICT

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—More than 10,000 railroad shopmen were back to work in the northwest today.

The Great Northern gave employment to 6,000 men in the northwest Monday. Two thousand of these were Twin City laborers. The Northern Pacific re-employed 1,800 Monday with 500 reporting for work at Brainerd.

The St. Paul, Northwestern and other northwestern lines also announced re-employment of several thousand men who had been laid off over the holidays.

Business activity at the start of 1931 was marked by the return of thousands of workers to the jobs they lost in the closing months of 1930, with railroads leading in the re-employment move. United Press dispatches reported today.

Many of the workers were rehired on a part-time basis. The Chicago & Northwestern railroad returned 7,000 men to its payroll, the Monon lines between 600 and 800, the Rock Island issued work calls to 2,500 and the Santa Fe to 3,000; the Missouri Pacific and Missouri-Kansas Texas rehired 1,400 at Sedalia, Mo., and the Missouri Pacific alone took back 200 at Kansas City and the Southern Pacific gave jobs to 8,500.

Detroit automobile plants, including the Ford Motor Company, added 22,000 workers, and Ford branches at Denver and St. Paul, 1,950. Eleven Cleveland industries, six connected with automotive products, restored 1,800 employees.

Chicago, Jan. 6. —(U.P.)—Thousands of working men who have been without employment for the last few weeks or months will be back at work before the end of January, according to announcements by railroad officials in Chicago.

Approximately 7,000 men returned to work yesterday on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad system, Vice President Frank Walters announced. About half of them, he said, were in Chicago.

H. P. Kurrie, vice president of the Monon Lines, said between 600 and 800 men went back to work yesterday in the car and mechanical shops of his line. They will work on a part time basis for the present, he said.

On the Rock Island line, approximately 2,500 additional men probably will be given work this month, L. C. Fritch, vice president, announced. The men, he said, would be employed tentatively in the shops, but might be retained permanently.

N. W. Willard, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe railroad, said his road was preparing to hire about 3,000 additional men early this year to lay new tracks and that the work would last until August.

New York, Jan. 6. —The announcement of Paul Block, publisher of the Block newspapers, that all his regular employees would be assured of their positions during 1931 was commended today by statesmen, labor leaders and leading industrialists.

Among those who congratulated Block on his effort to hasten restoration of prosperous business conditions were Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City.

Detroit, Jan. 6. —Approximately 22,000 automobile workers have returned to their jobs in this territory since the first of the year at four plants where men were dropped for the mid-winter inventory.

The plants taking old employees back were the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant, the Buick Company at Flint, Mich., the Cadillac plant in Detroit, and the East Windsor, Ont., plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6. —Twelve hundred men, idle during a three week inventory at the St. Paul plant of the Ford Motor Co., resumed work this week. Officials said that only old employees would be rehired for the present. Additional men may be taken on within a few weeks.

MINNESOTA'S 1931 SENATE AND HOUSE ASSEMBLE TODAY

IN BOTH HOUSES MORE MEMBERS TAKE OFFICE FIRST TIME IN YEARS

IN HOUSE SECRETARY OF STATE MIKE HOLM PRESIDED TEMPORARILY

By HARRISON SALISBURY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Jan. 5. —Minnesota's 1931 senate and house gathered in their respective capitol chambers at noon today.

In both houses more members took office for the first time in many years. Nearly 30 new senators were seated and about one-third of the house was made up of new representatives.

Members of the state supreme court attended both sessions and administered oaths of office.

In the house, Secretary of State Mike Holm presided temporarily until representatives could go through the formality of electing Oscar Swenson, Nicollet, as speaker.

The election of officers of the house, then proceeded, all posts having already been determined at a pre-session caucus.

Officers of the house included John I. Levin, St. Paul, chief clerk; C. L. Stevens, Warren, first assistant clerk; Andrew Benson, Cloquet, second assistant clerk; J. Carleton O'Neill, Minneapolis, engrossing clerk; Hans Arvik, Dorset, enrolling clerk; John D. Ross, Ortonville, sergeant-at-arms; Clare Deithmers, Pipestone, assistant sergeant-at-arms; John A. Johnson, Preston, postmaster; Brooks Ronald, Minneapolis, assistant postmaster; and Reverend Charles L. Grant, St. Paul, chaplain.

In the senate, Lieutenant Governor Henry Arens, Jordan, farmer-laborer, was first sworn in. He called the senate to order and swearing in of senators took place. Senators were divided in congressional districts.

After the senators had taken office, nomination of clerks and other session officers were made.

With organization completed, the two houses were to appoint committees to await on Governor Theodore Christianson and inform him that they had convened and were awaiting his message.

Announcement of committees was not expected in either house. Speaker Swenson said that he would require two or three days more to complete his list of assignments. The senate list has been held up for several days by the disagreement between Arens and members of the conservative faction over Arens exercise of the appointive power.

No business is transacted by the houses on the first day of the session according to custom.

The legislature will reassemble in joint session in the house chamber on Wednesday for the inauguration of Governor-elect Floyd B. Olson. Speaker Swenson will preside at the combined meeting.

Governor Christianson and Governor-elect Olson will hold a public reception in the rotunda of the capitol tonight at 8:30 P. M. Several thousand persons are expected at the ceremony. Preceding the reception Governor and Mrs. Christianson were hosts to Governor-elect Olson and his wife at a formal dinner.

Word of Fitzgerald's accident and the fact that men were needed immediately for blood transfusions spread quickly throughout the section in which he worked.

Motormen shouted it to the crew of other cars as they passed. One crew shouted the news to the men in a car barn as they passed.

To a man, the motormen and conductors of the section forgot their work in their hurry to reach Fitzgerald's bedside. Cars going the wrong direction were left standing in the streets while their crew boarded those going toward the Keystone.

The group of men in the car barn ran out a special car and, forgetting schedules, speeded to the hospital.

Within a short time after Fitzgerald arrived at the hospital, there was a long line of men, all in uniforms, waiting to undergo tests to determine were the best subjects for the transfusion operations.

Elmer Otto and Alfred Rodgers were selected and shortly before last midnight, only a short time after the accident, they gave a pint of blood each, but the sacrifice was in vain and the young conductor died a few hours later.

2 OLD COMRADES REUNITED IN DEATH

HAD BEEN WARTIME FRIENDS IN 60'S, SINCE SEPARATED BUT A FEW HOURS

Kansas City, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Private George N. Nichols and Capt. Theodore Griffin of the Grand Army of the Republic were reunited in death today after the wartime friends in the 60's and since had been separated but a few hours.

Together they fought in the 50th Illinois Infantry, attended reunions of their old regiment, indulged in reminiscences—and together they died.

Nichols, 86, was a salesman at the stockyards here from Jan. 1, 1885, until he retired six years ago. Griffin, 88, was a physician, practicing here many years before his retirement in 1905.

They died at their homes, separated by a few blocks, yesterday.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE TODAY BY RAILWAY HEADS

7,000 MEN RETURN TO WORK YESTERDAY ON CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN

22,000 AUTOMOBILE WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS IN THE DETROIT DISTRICT

(By United Press)
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—More than 10,000 railroad shopmen went back to work in the northwest today.

The Great Northern gave employment to 6,000 men in the northwest Monday. Two thousand of these were Twin City laborers. The Northern Pacific re-employed 1,800 Monday with 500 reporting for work at Brainerd.

The St. Paul, Northwestern and other northwestern lines also announced re-employment of several thousand men who had been laid off over the holidays.

Business activity at the start of 1931 was marked by the return of thousands of workers to the jobs they lost in the closing months of 1930, with railroads leading in the re-employment move, United Press dispatches reported today.

Many of the workers were rehired on a part-time basis. The Chicago & Northwestern railroad returned 7,000 men to its payroll, the Monon lines between 600 and 800, the Rock Island issued work calls to 2,500 and the Santa Fe to 3,000; the Missouri Pacific and Missouri-Kansas Texas rehired 1,400 at Sedalia, Mo., and the Missouri Pacific alone took back 200 at Kansas City and the Southern Pacific gave jobs to 8,500.

Detroit automobile plants, including the Ford Motor Company, added 22,000 workers, and Ford branches at Denver and St. Paul, 1,950. Eleven Cleveland industries, six connected with automotive products, restored 1,800 employees.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Thousands of working men who have been without employment for the last few weeks or months will be back at work before the end of January, according to announcements by railroad officials in Chicago.

Approximately 7,000 men returned to work yesterday on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad system, Vice President Frank Walters announced. About half of them, he said, were in Chicago.

H. P. Kurrie, vice president of the Monon Lines, said between 600 and 800 men went back to work yesterday in the car and mechanical shops of his line. They will work on a part time basis for the present, he said.

On the Rock Island lines, approximately 2,500 additional men probably will be given work this month, L. C. Fritch, vice president, announced. The men, he said, would be employed tentatively in the shops, but might be retained permanently.

N. W. Willard, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe railroad, said his road was preparing to hire about 3,000 additional men early this year to lay new tracks and that the work would last until August.

New York, Jan. 6.—The announcement of Paul Block, publisher of the Block newspapers, that all his regular employees would be assured of their positions during 1931 was commended today by statesmen, labor leaders and leading industrialists.

Among those who congratulated Block on his effort to hasten restoration of prosperous business conditions were Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Matthew S. Sloan, president of the New York Edison Company, and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City.

Detroit, Jan. 6.—Approximately 22,000 automobile workers have returned to their jobs in this territory since the first of the year at four plants where men were dropped for the mid-winter inventory.

The plants taking old employees back were the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant, the Buick Company at Flint, Mich., the Cadillac plant in Detroit, and the East Windsor, Ont., plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6. — Twelve hundred men, idle during a three week inventory at the St. Paul plant of the Ford Motor Co., resumed work this week. Officials said that only old employees would be rehired for the present. Additional men may be taken on within a few weeks.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 6.—Railroads, steel mills, coal mines and other industries in the tri-state district are recalling furloughed men or adding to their working forces, giving employment to thousands of men, a survey since the first of the year showed today.

At least 12,000 have returned to work or are expected to be recalled within the next few weeks. It was estimated 8,000 men already have returned to work in western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

MINNESOTA'S 1931 SENATE AND HOUSE ASSEMBLE TODAY

IN BOTH HOUSES MORE MEMBERS TAKE OFFICE FIRST TIME IN YEARS

IN HOUSE SECRETARY OF STATE MIKE HOLM PRESIDED

TEMPORARILY
By HARRISON SALISBURY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Jan. 5.—Minnesota's 1930 senate and house gathered in their respective capitol chambers at noon today.

In both houses more members took office for the first time in many years. Nearly 30 new senators were seated and about one-third of the house was made up of new representatives.

Members of the state supreme court attended both sessions and administered oaths of office.

In the house, Secretary of State Mike Holm presided temporarily until representatives could go through the formality of electing Oscar Swenson, Nicollet, as speaker.

The election of officers of the house, then proceeded, all posts having already been determined at a pre-session caucus.

Officers of the house included John I. Levin, St. Paul, chief clerk; C. L. Stevens, Warren, first assistant clerk; Andrew Benson, Cloquet, second assistant clerk; J. Carleton O'Neill, Minneapolis, engrossing clerk; Hans Arvik, Dorset, enrolling clerk; John D. Ross, Ortonville, sergeant-at-arms; Clarence Dethmers, Pipestone, assistant sergeant-at-arms; John A. Johnson, Preston, postmaster; Brooks Ronald, Minneapolis, assistant postmaster; and Reverend Charles L. Grant, St. Paul, chaplain.

In the senate, Lieutenant Governor Henry Arens, Jordan, farmer-laborer, was first sworn in. He called the senate to order and swearing in of senators took place. Senators were divided in congressional districts.

After the senators had taken office, nomination of clerks and other session officers were made.

With organization completed, the two houses were to appoint committees to await on Governor Theodore Christianson and inform him that they had convened and were awaiting his message.

Announcement of committees was not expected in either house. Speaker Swenson said that he would require two or three days more to complete his list of assignments. The senate list has been held up for several days by the disagreement between Arens and members of the conservative faction over Arens exercise of the appointive power.

No business is transacted by the houses on the first day of the session according to custom.

The legislature will reconvene in joint session in the house chamber on Wednesday for the inauguration of Governor-elect Floyd B. Olson. Speaker Swenson will preside at the combined meeting.

Governor Christianson and Governor-elect Olson will hold a public reception in the rotunda of the capitol tonight at 8:30 P. M. Several thousand persons are expected at the ceremony. Preceding the reception Governor and Mrs. Christianson were hosts to Governor-elect Olson and his wife at a formal dinner.

A. A. ROBBINS IS SENTENCED TO PRISON AND FINED $5,000

Minneapolis, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—A. A. Robbins, former president of the defunct 10,000 Lakes Fur Farms corporation, today was sentenced to three years in the Minneapolis workhouse and a $5,000 fine.

Judge W. C. Leary imposed the maximum sentence. Robbins was convicted of violating the state's blue sky laws by sale of fur farm stocks.

The court granted a stay until Saturday so an appeal for a new trial could be made. If the motion for a new trial is unsuccessful, Robbins' attorneys said they would appeal to the state supreme court.

Summarizing Wheat During Past Year

ONE of the best summations on wheat and its actions during the past year is contained in a review by the Chicago Tribune. The paper's commercial editor is cognizant of every phase of the situation. Chicago is one of the great wheat markets of the world.

"Agriculture," says Charles Michaels, "has gone through another year of drastic liquidation. The wheat market has lost all of its wartime inflation and the July delivery dropped back to levels not reached since the business depression in 1893-96. Old crops months might have equaled the depths of that period were it not for the support of the government's stabilization corporation which has created an artificial price considerably above world's parity."

"From 1894, when the price paid the producer for his wheat was 49 cents per bushel up to 1919 when he secured $2.15 there was an irregular advancing tendency, but the appreciation realized during the last 25 years has been practically wiped out due to the accumulation of a burdensome world's carryover. The total available supply has been swelled to record proportion, with production increasing faster than consumption. Unless the unexpected happens farmers will do well to receive 75 cents per bushel for their wheat from the 1931 crop not only in the United States but also in other surplus producing countries."

"Record or near record low prices for wheat prevailed at the close of the year in all the leading countries of the world with the Canadian producer securing less than 35c per bushel. From 1893-96, the last time there was a similar world-wide business depression, the lowest prices for wheat were made in January, 1895, and a similar condition might prevail early in 1931, as during that period the full effect of the new southern hemisphere crop movement will be felt."

"The action of the wheat market in 1929 and 1930 amply confirms the oft reiterated statement that supply and demand are the dominating factors in determining the price and even the efforts of government and semi-government bodies like the Canadian pool cannot hope to change the trend of prices for more than a short while."

"Highest prices for wheat were made in January, 1930, and the lowest in December, the year witnessing an almost steady decline despite numerous crop scares during the summer which cut down the prospective crop of spring wheat in the United States and Canada materially from the early outlook. Importing countries felt the effect of the business depression before North America and bought on a hand to mouth scale the greater part of the time."

"The entrance of Russia as a heavy seller of wheat for the first time since 1914 helped to demoralize the world market, and the threat of immense sales by that country cannot be ignored during the 1931 season, owing to the prospective increase of 19 per cent contemplated for the spring wheat crop."

"To all intents and purposes the United States can no longer compete with the low production costs of wheat and other grains of other countries, and another revolution in agriculture impends, or the American farmer will have to materially change his standard of living. The producer of wheat has two courses open to him—either cut the acreage and produce only sufficient wheat for domestic requirements which would insure a world price plus the import duty, or he can continue to put in an excessive acreage and have the exportable surplus depress the price of the entire crop to a world parity."

Mr. Michaels states that a record breaking drought played havoc with the corn crop. The oats crop was largely harvested before the drought became serious in the central west, but the market was dominated largely by the action of corn. Prices for oats in Canada and the Argentine were so low that part of the crop was not threshed as producers could scarcely get freight and threshing charges back. The ill advised effort to corner the rye market late in 1929 resulted in an almost complete absence of foreign demand for this grain.

SUNDAY paper gives a picture of George Ade, humorist, sitting on a concrete bench in a park at Miami Beach, Fla. George wears the most solemn kind of an expression, which may be due in part to the hard seat he is holding down. The average humorist, when he relaxes, it seems, does not seem a bit funny, and has little to say.

The Clyde river is to be deepened and otherwise enlarged to accommodate launching of a large liner building at Glasgow. That reminds us of the bungalow owner who bought a piano and then had to widen his front door in order to get the new piano into the house.

Sargol often triumphs in stubborn cases when many other medicines and treatments have failed. Times without number men and women have rejoiced in new-found health through its use—That's why it is called the medicine with a million friends.

Summarizing Wheat During Past Year

ONE of the best summations on wheat and its actions during the past year is contained in a review by the Chicago Tribune. The paper's commercial editor is cognizant of every phase of the situation. Chicago is one of the great wheat markets of the world.

"Agriculture," says Charles Michaels, "has gone through another year of drastic liquidation. The wheat market has lost all of its wartime inflation and the July delivery dropped back to levels not reached since the business depression in 1893-96. Old crops months might have equaled the depths of that period were it not for the support of the government's stabilization corporation which has created an artificial price considerably above world's parity."

"From 1894, when the price paid the producer for his wheat was 49 cents per bushel up to 1919 when he secured $2.15 there was an irregular advancing tendency, but the appreciation realized during the last 25 years has been practically wiped out due to the accumulation of a burdensome world's carryover. The total available supply has been swelled to record proportion, with production increasing faster than consumption. Unless the unexpected happens farmers will do well to receive 75 cents per bushel for their wheat from the 1931 crop not only in the United States but also in other surplus producing countries."

"Record or near record low prices for wheat prevailed at the close of the year in all the leading countries of the world with the Canadian producer securing less than 35c per bushel. From 1893-96, the last time there was a similar world-wide business depression, the lowest prices for wheat were made in January, 1895, and a similar condition might prevail early in 1931, as during that period the full effect of the new southern hemisphere crop movement will be felt."

"The action of the wheat market in 1929 and 1930 amply confirms the oft reiterated statement that supply and demand are the dominating factors in determining the price and even the efforts of government and semi-government bodies like the Canadian pool cannot hope to change the trend of prices for more than a short while."

"Highest prices for wheat were made in January, 1930, and the lowest in December, the year witnessing an almost steady decline despite numerous crop scares during the summer which cut down the prospective crop of spring wheat in the United States and Canada materially from the early outlook. Importing countries felt the effect of the business depression before North America and bought on a hand to mouth scale the greater part of the time."

"The entrance of Russia as a heavy seller of wheat for the first time since 1914 helped to demoralize the world market, and the threat of immense sales by that country cannot be ignored during the 1931 season, owing to the prospective increase of 19 per cent contemplated for the spring wheat crop."

"To all intents and purposes the United States can no longer compete with the low production costs of wheat and other grains of other countries, and another revolution in agriculture impends, or the American farmer will have to materially change his standard of living. The producer of wheat has two courses open to him—either cut the acreage and produce only sufficient wheat for domestic requirements which would insure a world price plus the import duty, or he can continue to put in an excessive acreage and have the exportable surplus depress the price of the entire crop to a world parity."

Mr. Michaels states that a record breaking drought played havoc with the corn crop. The oats crop was largely harvested before the drought became serious in the central west, but the market was dominated largely by the action of corn. Prices for oats in Canada and the Argentine were so low that part of the crop was not threshed as producers could scarcely get freight and threshing charges back. The ill advised effort to corner the rye market late in 1929 resulted in an almost complete absence of foreign demand for this grain.

SUNDAY paper gives a picture of George Ade, humorist, sitting on a concrete bench in a park at Miami Beach, Fla. George wears the most solemn kind of an expression, which may be due in part to the hard seat he is holding down. The average humorist, when he relaxes, it seems, does not seem a bit funny, and has little to say.

The Clyde river is to be deepened and otherwise enlarged to accommodate launching of a large liner building at Glasgow. That reminds us of the bungalow owner who bought a piano and then had to widen his front door in order to get the new piano into the house.

"THE Trade Wind," airplane operated by Lieut. MacLaren and Mrs. Hart, has belied its name. Instead of traveling one direction and making the two-hop flight to Europe, the ship missed Bermuda and when the instruments behaved badly, the fliers turned back.

NEWLY ORGANIZED BOARD AIDS NURSE

Sub-Advisory Boards Working With County Nurse, Miss Caroline Walz
AND NURSING COMMITTEE
Township and Board Members of Six Districts Are Enumerated

For the past three months, sub-advisory boards have been working in the county with the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, and with the Crow Wing County Nursing committee consisting of Mrs. K. J. Cleary, chairman; Dr. B. A. Smith, vice chairman; Mrs. R. G. Hart, secretary; J. H. Holvick, county commissioner and Irma Camp Hartley, former county superintendent, attend to the immediate needs of the county nurse, and have given her most splendid support. They have held regular monthly meetings at which problems are discussed and advice and direction given as to the best disposal of same.

However, it was deemed wise to have more individual support throughout the county, and consequently sub-advisory boards have been organized, being active about three months. This group of members comprises a representative from each township, the first general meeting of which was held on September 20 at the court house. At that time Elvira Peterson, superintendent of the M. P. H. nurses gave a talk explaining the purpose of the organization and temporary chairmen were appointed to preside at their individual meetings.

Crow Wing county has been divided into six districts—a board of six members in each, all of which districts have had their first business meeting. It was also decided to have quarterly meetings with the county nurse, and for the present, a general program was adopted. Various problems of the districts will be presented, and with the advice of these members, the best possible adjustment is made.

The outline consists of numerous projects that might be taken up by the members in the various districts in the future. With the cooperation of so many splendid women in the county, there is no doubt that their communities will have a much healthier, happier atmosphere and many troubles and problems prevented.

The districts of the county are made up of the following township and board members:

District No. 1:
Allen—Mrs. R. C. Dudley.
Gall Lake—Mrs. Frank White, chairman.

Ideal—Mrs. R. E. Houge.
Jenkins—Mrs. Roy Snook.

V. E. QUANSTROM IS ACTING MAYOR

President of Council Appears Likely to do Fill in Duty Until Spring Election

Alderman V. E. Quanstrom, president of the city council, will remain as acting mayor of the city of Brainerd until such time as the council sees fit to appoint a successor to the office of F. E. Little, now sheriff of Crow Wing county.

When Alderman W. J. Hall asked what the council intended to do about the appointment of a mayor at last evening's council meeting there came the reply from Mr. Quanstrom that the council has not seen fit to make an appointment at this time. There was no other discussion on the question.

In the event of no appointment Mr. Quanstrom will remain acting mayor until the spring election in April. Such appears likely to be the case. Mr. Quanstrom continues also to act in the capacity of president of the council.

HIGHWAY PLAN HELPS OTHER ROADS

More Than 1,100 Miles of State Aid Routes Graveled Each Year Since 1921

An average of more than 1,100 miles of state aid roads per year have been graveled and improved since Minnesota adopted the trunk highway plan, according to figures given out this week by C. M. Babcock, commissioner of highways. Figures on state aid roads are compiled by the State Highway department from reports submitted by the county highway engineers.

"Previous to 1921 most of the state aid and county road funds were spent on the main roads," Mr. Babcock said. "The trunk highway plan, by leaving the state aid and county road funds intact for use on secondary routes, has made possible a very rapid development in these feeder roads. A less expensive type of construction is required on these roads than on the trunk highways, but due to the lighter traffic many of them are in better condition than the average graveled trunk highway."

The highway department's reports show that at the end of 1920 there were 13,652 miles of state aid roads, of which 145 were paved, 105 miles macadam, 4,507 miles gravel surfaced, 3,512 miles graded and unsurfaced and 5,383 miles unpaved.

Most of the 7,000 miles designated as trunk highways in 1921 came out of the state aid system, but a number of other routes added. At the end of 1921 the reports showed 8,357 miles in the state aid system, of which 32 were paved, 73 macadam, 2,544 gravel surfaced, 140 sand-clay surfaced, 2,397 graded and unsurfaced and 3,170 unpaved.

Since that time some routes have been added each year, and grading, graveling and other work has been pushed rapidly. The reports just compiled show that there are now 16,365 miles in the state aid system, of which 95 are paved, 101 macadam, 12,496 gravel surfaced, 404 sand-clay surfaced, 1,235 graded and unsurfaced, and 1,705 unpaved.

State aid roads are financed by the proceeds of the state-wide one mill tax levy, plus county funds. None of the gas tax fund which has been distributed to the counties since 1929 is spent on these roads, but goes on another class known as county aid roads. While the State Highway department has no supervision over county aid roads, it expects to have a report on their status of improvement later.

Council Turns Down Request of O. G. Villwock on Petition of Merchants

11 BUSINESS HOUSES SIGN

Assert That "Laurel Recreation Parlor Conducted in Manner Injurious to Others"

The "Laurel Recreation Parlor," 610 Laurel street, was refused a license to operate when O. G. Villwock made application by letter last evening to the city council asking for a renewal.

The council turned down the request after hearing a petition from Laurel street merchants who urged that such action be taken on the grounds that the poolhall was being conducted in such a manner as to be injurious to other businesses and business houses in the same vicinity.

The following business houses joined in asking that the license be not granted: Alderman-Maghan Co., John M. Bye Clothing Co., C. N. Erickson, Brainerd Cooperative Mercantile Co., S. Lundberg, Anderson Brothers, Home Bakery, The Burg Co., B. M. Johnson, Peterson Clothing Co., and the Scott Stores, Inc.

Eight aldermen voted in favor of not permitting the license, Aldermen V. F. Anderson, Chris Elvig, W. J. Hall, F. J. Johnson, Elmer Lee, W. J. Lyons, Ernest Ritari, V. E. Quanstrom.

K. W. Creger was the only alderman to oppose the motion. He said that if more careful police protection had been given the poolhall, it would not have become a nuisance.

N. E. COMMUNITY CENTER APPROVED

Council Votes to Construct New Building on Site of Old Hose House

COST ESTIMATED $1,260

Will Have Assembly and Three Small Rooms; Work to be Done on Day Labor Plan

Northeast Brainerd's wishes for a new hose house and community center are to be realized.

The city council last evening voted on motion of Aldermen Ernest Ritari and Christ Elvig to give the city engineer and city property committee power to construct the new building on the site of the old Liberty Hose Co. building, recently dismantled, the work to be done on the day labor plan of wages not under 50 cents an hour.

The council also approved plans of the new building submitted by City Engineer R. T. Campbell. They call for the construction of a frame building with four interior rooms, the assembly, 23 feet by 31 feet, and three small rooms all 8 feet by 8 feet to be used for fuel, kitchen and storage.

The height of the building will be 10 feet and as much lumber as can be salvaged from the old building will be used. The interior will be plastered. The building will be raised from the ground by concrete blocks.

City Engineer Campbell estimated the cost would be approximately $1,260.

Besides meetings of the Liberty Hose Co. and other community groups the new building will be utilized as a polling place for the first precinct of the third ward.

Alderman Elvig thanked the members of the council for granting the construction of the building. It will be located on Second avenue.

Rotarian I. L. Peterson, Secretary of the Association, Tells of Growth of Organization

Y. INCORPORATED IN 1888

More Than 500 Members Are Now on the Rolls of the Local Y., But Not All Use Facilities Regularly

The speaker at the Rotary meeting was Rotarian I. L. Peterson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who told of progress achieved by the association.

The Y. M. C. A. as an organization was founded in London, England by George Williams nearly a century ago. Not many years later association was formed in Boston, the first in North America. The growth of the organization has been continuous until today it is rated as one of the largest in the world having a budget up in the billions when the work of more than two thousand associations in this country and those of 26 other countries is taken as a whole. More than a million members are listed as annual members in the United States.

Brainerd Y. M. C. A. was incorporated in 1888 with the present building, there being none of the signers of those papers today. Reminiscences of Brainerd men who enjoyed the privileges of years gone by recount that the "Y." has always been a rendezvous for older boys and young men of Brainerd. Records are somewhat vague for certain periods of its operation and like other organizations newly located, it has had its ups and downs. Since 1927, the local organization has conformed to the constitution of the national organization. All phases of the work are being carried out insofar as facilities will permit. A monthly report of finances is made to state and national officers, and much assistance is received from these offices in the general administration of the local "Y."

More than 500 members are on the rolls of the local "Y." but only a fraction of them use the "Y." regularly. If more should decide to use it, the building would not be adequate. Reports were given of some of the detailed operation, regarding athletics, meetings, young peoples organizations, tourist service, service rendered the public, etc. It was stated that the membership appreciated very much the excellent cooperation of the Northern Pacific railway company. Nine Brainerd citizens represent the directorship of the local Y. M. C. A.

The joint meeting of Rotary and Lions clubs will be held at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday, January 14, at the Ramsford hotel. One hundred per cent attendance of the clubs are looked for. Two prominent speakers have been promised for the occasion. A limited number of guests may attend, and reservations must be made early.

NEWLY ORGANIZED BOARD AIDS NURSE

Sub-Advisory Boards Working With County Nurse, Miss Caroline Walz

AND NURSING COMMITTEE

Township and Board Members of Six Districts Are Enumerated

For the past three months, sub-advisory boards have been working in the county with the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, and with the Crow Wing County Nursing committee. The Crow Wing County Nursing committee consisting of Mrs. K. J. Cleary, chairman; Dr. B. A. Smith, vice chairman; Mrs. R. G. Harte, secretary; J. H. Holvick, county commissioner and Irma Camp Hartley, former county superintendent, attend to the immediate needs of the county nurse, and have given her most splendid support. They have held regular monthly meetings at which problems are discussed and advice and direction given as to the best disposal of same.

However, it was deemed wise to have more individual support throughout the county, and consequently sub-advisory boards have been organized, being active about three months. This group of members comprises a representative from each township, the first general meeting of which was held on September 20 at the court house. At that time Elvira Peterson, superintendent of the M. P. H. nurses gave a talk explaining the purpose of the organization and temporary chairmen were appointed to preside at their individual meetings.

Crow Wing county has been divided into six districts—a board of six members in each, all of which districts have had their first business meeting. It was also decided to have quarterly meetings with the county nurse, and for the present, a general program was adopted. Various problems of the districts will be presented, and with the advice of these members, the best possible adjustment is made.

The outline consists of numerous projects that might be taken up by the members in the various districts in the future. With the cooperation of so many splendid women in the county, there is no doubt that their communities will have a much healthier, happier atmosphere and many troubles and problems prevented.

The districts of the county are made up of the following township and board members:

District No. 1:
Allen—Mrs. R. C. Dudley.
Gail Lake—Mrs. Frank White, chairman.

Ideal—Mrs. R. E. Houge.
Jenkins—Mrs. Roy Snook.
Timothy—Mrs. Oscar Peterson, secretary.

Watertown—Mrs. Legan Allen.
District No. 2:
Dean Lake—Mrs. Homer Wells, chairman.

Emily—Mrs. A. Frank Anderson, secretary.

Perry Lake—Mrs. J. E. Prushek.
Ross Lake—J. C. Bodie.
District No. 3:
Center—Mrs. Melvin Stropp, vice chairman.

Deerwood—Mrs. George Butler.
Ironton—Mrs. Fred Blomberg, chairman.
Mission—Mrs. Bert Sabin.

Wolford—Mrs. Ray Foote, secretary.

IS ACTING MAYOR

President of Council Appears Likely to do Fill in Duty Until Spring Election

Alderman V. E. Quanstrom, president of the city council, will remain as acting mayor of the city of Brainerd until such time as the council sees fit to appoint a successor to the office of F. E. Little, now sheriff of Crow Wing county.

When Alderman W. J. Hall asked what the council intended to do about the appointment of a mayor at last evening's council meeting there came the reply from Mr. Quanstrom that the council has not seen fit to make an appointment at this time. There was no other discussion on the question.

In the event of no appointment Mr. Quanstrom will remain acting mayor until the spring election in April. Such appears likely to be the case. Mr. Quanstrom continues also to act in the capacity of president of the council.

HIGHWAY PLAN HELPS OTHER ROADS

More Than 1,100 Miles of State Aid Routes Graveled Each Year Since 1921

An average of more than 1,100 miles of state aid roads per year have been graveled and improved since Minnesota adopted the trunk highway plan, according to figures given out this week by C. M. Babcock, commissioner of highways. Figures on state aid roads are compiled by the State Highway department from reports submitted by the county highway engineers.

"Previous to 1921 most of the state aid and county road funds were spent on the main roads," Mr. Babcock said. "The trunk highway plan, by leaving the state aid and county road funds intact for use on secondary routes, has made possible a very rapid development in these feeder roads. A less expensive type of construction is required on these roads than on the trunk highways, but due to the lighter traffic many of them are in better condition than the average graveled trunk highway."

The highway department's reports show that at the end of 1920 there were 13,652 miles of state aid roads, of which 145 were paved, 105 miles macadam, 4,507 miles gravel surfaced, 3,512 miles graded and unsurfaced and 5,383 miles unpaved.

Most of the 7,000 miles designated as trunk highways in 1921 came out of the state aid system, but a number of other routes added. At the end of 1921 the reports showed 8,357 miles in the state aid system, of which 32 were paved, 73 macadam, 2,544 gravel surfaced, 140 sand-clay surfaced, 2,397 graded and unsurfaced and 3,170 unpaved.

Since that time some routes have been added each year, and grading, graveling and other work has been pushed rapidly. The reports just compiled show that there are now 16,165 miles in the state aid system, of which 95 are paved, 101 macadam, 12,496 gravel surfaced, 404 sand-clay surfaced, 1,265 graded and unsurfaced, and 1,703 unpaved.

State aid roads are financed by the proceeds of the state-wide one mill tax levy, plus county funds. None of the gas tax fund which has been distributed to the counties since 1929 is spent on these roads, but goes on another class known as county aid roads. While the State Highway department has no supervision over county aid roads, it expects to have a report on their status of improvement later.

HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING SITUATION AIRED

NEW YORK BOXING BODY NOW IN SESSION

7 DAYS OF GRACE GRANTED JOE JACOBS, SCHEMLING MAN-AGER, EXPIRE TODAY

GERMAN COMMANDED TO DEFEND HIS TITLE AGAINST SHARKEY IN JUNE

New York, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—The New York State Athletic Commission today deprived Max Schmeling of his title as world champion heavyweight boxer. The commission also declared the middleweight title held by Mickey Walker of Rumson, N. J., vacant because he "has violated all rules pertaining to championships." Walker had not defended his title in more than six months, as required by commission rules.

New York, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—The heavy-weight boxing situation was due for considerable discussion today at the regular meeting of the New York boxing commission.

Today marks the end of the seven days of grace granted Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, by the commission to answer its demand that the champion agree at once to defend his title against Jack Sharkey here in June.

The commission has indicated that Jacobs must say "yes" or have the championship declared vacant. Jacobs told the United Press yesterday that he would refuse to answer either "yes" or "no."

"I will tell the commissioners," said Jacobs, "that we insist on meeting no one but the logical contender and that he be named 90 days before the fight by the press and public."

All of which is the same thing that Jacobs told the commission last week. William F. Carey, president Madison Square Garden, is also expected to appear before the commission reportedly to ask sanction for a bout between W. L. Stribling and Sharkey, here in June to determine the logical man to meet Schmeling for the title.

If Carey does ask permission for such a bout and is refused, there will be little chance of New York having a title fight here this summer.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, announced today that he would defend his title any time—under certain conditions.

His opponent must be selected or named by the National Boxing Commission after a series of elimination bouts.

He will fight only in Chicago, because, he said, there is no guarantee of fair play in New York due to the attitude of James A. Farley, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

The referee must be neutral and in no way dependent upon Farley.

The fight must be held under the rules of the National Boxing Commission, which do not permit low hitting.

ULTIMATE INDIAN HOME RULE SEEMS TO BE ASSURED

LIBERAL PARTY ACCORDS SUPPORT TO PROPOSALS OF BRITISH-INDIAN DELEGATES

Indian Round Table Conference now being held in London

London, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Ultimate Indian home rule appeared strengthened today by the support of the liberal party to the proposals of British-Indian delegates to the Indian round table conference in session here.

The Marquess of Reading, liberal leader, former viceroy of India, and head of his party's delegation to the conference, told the sub-committee considering the structure of a federal Indian government that the liberal party was prepared to support the British-Indian views regarding the so-called responsibility of a central organization, or the creation of a federal executive or cabinet responsible to the Indian federal legislature. He added that such support would be subject to certain reservations and safeguards.

Lord Reading said that reservations included the Indian legislature's authority over questions relating to defense, the army, foreign relations, and international obligations already incurred by India.

Hall granted permission of the use of city property involved and instructed the fire, light and water committee to ask the Water and Light Board to furnish free light and water for the rink.

Members of the hockey team were present at the meeting.

Benny Bass Successfully Defends Title Against Massey

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, successfully defended his title in a ten round bout with his fellow townsman, Lew Massey, at the arena here last night. Bass weighed 128½ and Massey 128.

Bass, while not as impressive as in most of his other fights, clearly was Massey's master throughout the milling, punishing the Italian severely with a body attack in the closing rounds, after Lew held him fairly even for the first five rounds.

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE.

Ardeth Carroll has charge of the specialty shop owned by wealthy Jeanette Parker. She met Ken Gleason, fiancé of Jeanette's sister, Cecile, and they fell in love. Their marriage is prevented by Ken's wish that he marry Cecile. When Ken fails to keep an appointment with Ardeth, Tom Corbett takes her to dinner. They meet Ken and Cecile. Later Ken tells Ardeth fear of disappointing his mother, whose days are numbered, forced him to attend Cecile's party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

KEN was pale to the lips as he gently loosed her clasp. His eyes avoided her own—went far out to fasten on a red oil tanker nosing its way out the gate. He spoke slowly, as though he had difficulty finding the words.

"I'm so damned miserable, Ardeth. I don't know how to say this. I've been thinking—going over and over last night in my mind until I'm nearly crazy. Seeing you last night with Tom sort of opened my eyes. He—he likes you, Tom does. I feel—oh, I feel like a dog in the manger—"

"Why?" her stiff lips would hardly form the word.

"To keep you from—from other fellows."

"Oh." Her hands were clasped so tightly that the knuckles were bloodless. "Oh."

He turned on her with a sort of angry wildness. "No! You mustn't think that! That I don't care! There's nothing I wouldn't go through for you! I'd marry you tomorrow—but there is mother. I can't break her heart. It would mean just that if I went to her and told her that you—that I—"

Oh—of course she'd say she wanted me to be happy—that's what she would say. But she's set her heart on—on Cecile. She thinks she's doing the best thing for me. And how can I cross her now?"

The last, almost a groan.

"No," she whispered. "No—you can't."

He went on more calmly. "Stall. That's what I've been doing. You know it! Hoping things will come right. If she had anyone else—my father—or another son—I can't hurt her. And I have no right to ask you to wait—for years, maybe. . . . A girl like you—and old Tom—more than half in love with you now."

Sweet and vivid relief shooting through her veins. Warming her to life—to a love which was pain.

Willing to Wait.

"Oh—darling—" she was fumbling for his hand. "Is that all! Wait—Oh—for a hundred years! Any time, Ken, so it comes right for us in the end! I thought—Oh, I thought you didn't want me!"

"Want you." The husky roughness of his voice was music. "Wild about you, Moth. But—I'm caught!"

She was suddenly buoyant. "Ah, just for now! But some day things are going to come right for us!" He flinched away from his own thoughts. Drew a deep sigh. "Maybe you're right. . . . After all, why shouldn't they?"

The warm optimism of youth flowing back with the thought. "Maybe the doctor isn't right about mother. Doctors have been mistaken before." He turned. Drew her to him with rough passion. "We'll make things come right, Moth!"

They parted on that note. Days merged into weeks. Autumn into Winter. Ardeth felt that she moved through a dream. She was holding her breath lest she wake.

The shop filled her days, for Jeanette was becoming bored with her new toy. It was only the gossip of the smokeries which brought Jeanette down each day.

It was Ardeth who did the real work of the store; not only selling now but buying—sending out the bills and the checks at each end of the month.

In the evenings there were little inexpensive dinners with Ken. There were long rides down the read her delight in the deepening rose of her cheeks. Something flamed in the man's eyes.

"You're a darling!" he said, fervently, then turned scarlet and pretended to be examining a chiffon scarf, sewn with seed pearls, as a customer came in.

When Mary Eastwood came into the shop later in the day she came directly to the girl behind the case.

"Tom told me he spoke to you. He really has a jolly little cable and we're going to rough it. Let our own meals, you know. No servants. Fred and I will be chaperones. Phyllis Hawkins and Maida Duvant are the other girls. Ken Gleason and Bill Lane—are you and Tom—that's all."

Then, in her own direct way, Mary broke off to eye the girl before her, curiously.

"You clever little devil—do you know what you're doing? Here, Ardeth, don't you pull that baby stare on me! You've got one of the most eligible men in the city wild about you. I've never seen old Tom like this before about a girl."

"Oh—that's imagination," Ardeth began to stammer. She refused to meet the other's eyes.

"Don't be coy!" said Mary Eastwood, severely. "And don't fence with me! I know what it is. I work—and to be poor, too. I hope you're not going to be a fool, Ardeth."

"Why—what do you mean?" The wide amber eyes came up to rest on Mary's steady dark gaze and there was a glint of fear in the girl's look.

Mary shrugged. Her voice was kindly. "You know what I mean. I'm afraid those cards are stacked. No! Don't ask me anything further; I've talked too much as it is! Let's talk about clothes. Dress warmly; you'll need hiking things if you're going to have any fun in the snow."

Her last words were lost on the girl. Ardeth was watching Mary Eastwood with a wistfulness which hurt the other.

"You speak in enigmas, Lady Sphinx. And I never was good at guessing riddles. . . ."

"Some day you'll have the answer to that riddle, Ardeth. When you do—come to me, for I like you, child. If I'm wrong, I'll help you to be right. If I'm right, I'll try to comfort you. Not another word. We understand each other. And—I do not gossip, Ardeth. Corbett."

The warm, hearty voice held a badgered note as though Mary Eastwood were in a panic for saying so much.

The memory of this was a bitter secret in Ardeth's heart. That night, lying in her small dark room high above the city Ardeth's lips moved noisily in the dark.

"I'm afraid those cards are stacked. . . . If I'm right, I'll comfort you. . . ."

Ah, she understood—dear Mary Eastwood! Perhaps—before her marriage, she too had known this ache of uncertainty. Perhaps she, too, had fought phantom fears before she landed the big brown Fred safe in the net of matrimony.

A wry little smile touched Ardeth's lips in the dark. Women . . . They spoke of the new freedom. Called them the fearless generation. Yet underneath, it had always been the same. Each intent only on getting the man she loved . . .

Ken laughed when he heard of the proposed party. "Wily old Tom!" there was laughing jealousy in his voice. "Going to get you up there even if he has to put up with me! Doggone it! I wish I could drive you up. If I hadn't promised Mary to take her and the girls up Friday I'd wait over a day."

HEAVYWEIGHT BOXING SITUATION AIRED

NEW YORK BOXING BODY NOW IN SESSION

7 DAYS OF GRACE GRANTED JOE JACOBS, SCHMELING MANAGER, EXPIRE TODAY

GERMAN COMMANDED TO DEFEND HIS TITLE AGAINST SHARKEY IN JUNE

New York, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—The New York State Athletic Commission today deprived Max Schmeling of his title as world champion heavyweight boxer. The commission also declared the middleweight title held by Mickey Walker of Rumson, N. J., vacant because he "has violated all rules pertaining to championships." Walker had not defended his title in more than six months, as required by commission rules.

New York, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—The heavy-weight boxing situation was due for considerable discussion today at the regular meeting of the New York boxing commission.

Today marks the end of the seven days of grace granted Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, by the commission to answer its demand that the champion agree at once to defend his title against Jack Sharkey here in June.

The commission has indicated that Jacobs must say "yes" or have the championship declared vacant. Jacobs told the United Press yesterday that he would refuse to answer either "yes" or "no."

"I will tell the commissioners," said Jacobs, "that we insist on meeting no one but the logical contender and that he be named 90 days before the fight by the press and public."

All of which is the same thing that Jacobs told the commission last week. William F. Carey, president Madison Square Garden, is also expected to appear before the commission reportedly to ask sanction for a bout between W. L. Stribling and Sharkey, here in June to determine the logical man to meet Schmeling for the title.

If Carey does ask permission for such a bout and is refused, there will be little chance of New York having a title fight here this summer.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, announced today that he would defend his title any time—under certain conditions.

His opponent must be selected or named by the National Boxing Commission after a series of elimination bouts.

He will fight only in Chicago, because, he said, there is no guarantee of fair play in New York due to the attitude of James A. Farley, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

The referee must be neutral and in no way dependent upon Farley.

The fight must be held under the rules of the National Boxing Commission, which do not permit low hitting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

KEN was pale to the lips as he gently loosed her clasp.

His eyes avoided her own—went far out to fasten on a red oil tanker nosing its way out the Gate. He spoke slowly, as though he had difficulty finding the words.

"I'm so damned miserable, Ardeh. I don't know how to say this. I've been thinking—going over and over last night in my mind until I'm nearly crazy. Seeing you last night with Tom sort of opened my eyes. He—like you, Tom does. I feel—oh, I feel like a dog in the manger—"

"Why?" her stiff lips would hardly form the word.

"To keep you from—from other fellows."

"Oh." Her hands were clasped so tightly that the knuckles were bloodless.

"Oh!"

He turned on her with a sort of angry wildness. "No! You mustn't think that! That I don't care! There's nothing I wouldn't go through for you! I'd marry you tomorrow—but—there is mother. I can't break her heart. It would mean just that if I went to her and told her that you—that I—I—Oh—of course she'd say she wanted me to be happy—that's the way with mothers. But she's set her heart on—on Cecile. She thinks she's doing the best thing for me. And how can I cross her now?"

The last, almost a groan.

"No," she whispered. "No—you can't."

He went on more calmly. "Stall. That's what I've been doing. You know it! Hoping things will come right. If she had anyone else—my father—or another son—I can't hurt her. But she's set no right to ask you to wait—for years, maybe. A girl like you—and old Tom more than half in love with you now."

Sweet and vivid relief shooting through her veins. Warming her to life—to a life which was pain.

Will you Wait.

"Oh—darling—" she was fumbling for his hand. "Is that all? Wait—Oh—for a hundred years! Any time, Ken, so it comes right for us in the end! I thought—Oh, I thought you didn't want me!"

"Want you?" The husky roughness of his voice was music. "Wild about you, Moth. But—I'm caught."

She was suddenly buoyant. "Ah, just for now! But some day things are going to come right for us!"

He flinched away from his own thoughts. Drew a deep sigh. "Maybe you're right. . . . After all, why shouldn't you?"

The warm optimism of youth flowing back with the thought. "Maybe the doctor isn't right about mother. Doctors have been mistaken before." He turned.

Drew her to him with rough passion. "We'll make things come right, Moth."

They parted on that note.

Days merged into weeks. Autumn into Winter. Ardeth felt that she moved through a dream. She was holding her breath lest she wake.

The shop filled her days, for Jeanette was becoming bored with her new toy. It was only the gossip of the smokerie which brought Jeanette down each day.

It was Ardeth who did the real work of the store; not only selling now but buying—sending out the bills and the checks at each end of the month.

In the evenings there were little inexpensive dinners with Ken. There were long rides down the highway through the crisp, star-filled nights.

When Ken could not be with her she stayed quietly in her own room, sometimes reading, more often sewing on some filmy pink trifle which later would be laid away in the bottom bureau drawer.

Day Dreams.

A steadily growing stack of dainty underthings were here. Some nights Ardeth would sit back on her heels, eyes like stars, while she lifted the tissue paper and gazed over them. The beginnings of her modest trousseau. . . . It seemed, in some mysterious way, to hasten the time when she and Ken could be married.

Now and then a note of dogged hope in his voice. Tom Corbett phoned and asked her to go out with him to dinner—to a show.

Gentle finality in her refusal.

She almost glared in this chance to show her loyalty to Ken. Better to stay alone like this, in the quiet little room perched high above the city, than to go out with someone else.

There was comfort in the thought. It was, she thought defiantly, as though she were earning in the right to her happiness.

On a day when rain lashed Grant Avenue and machines slid cautiously by the glass-paneled front door of The Caprice, Tom Corbett betwined the shop.

From the smokerie came the voices of Cecile and Jeanette and the insolent caress of Cyril Underhill's drawl. Tom scowled and carefully avoided the open doorway.

He disliked the smokerie.

Walking over to Ardeth, and speaking in a cautiously low voice, he regarded his gray felt hat, stained black and shapeless by moisture.

"Raining cats and dogs. Good thing, though. Rain here means snow up in the mountains. I heard from a fellow who lives in the small town near my cabin up there. Says they had a fine fall last week." His brown eyes went a little shyly to the girl. "Mary say anything to you yet?"

Her astonished gaze met his squarely. "Mary? Mary Eastwood? No. About what?"

Tom scratched his head like a bashful youngster. "Pshaw. Put my foot in it again, didn't I? Well she will—You see, Mary's going to chaperone a bunch I've invited up to my mountain cabin for a snow party. You're included. Mary said she was going to speak to you."

When the girl opened her lip to speak Tom's words flowed a little faster.

"Going to refuse, aren't you? Got to be a habit, hasn't it, turning me down?" He grinned but there was something hurt and wistful in his eyes. "Save your breath this time; he's coming, too. Oh, don't try to look so innocent and surprised. You know I mean old Ken."

"Why—I—I didn't say—"

"Tom's grin was a trifle thin. 'Sure.' Invited him to get you up there."

Ardeth felt her cheeks burn. "Oh, of course! So popular I am!" she tried to jeer. "Anyway, in spite of your deep scheming, I can't go. Jeanette needs me. Someone has to be here in the shop."

"I've talked that all over with Jeanette," returned Tom. "See—I have you in a corner. It's just a week-end party. Most of us are leaving Friday. But you can come up with Fred Eastwood on Saturday. How does that suit you?"

Her eyes were dancing and he

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Benny Bass, junior lightweight champion, successfully defended his title in a ten round bout with his fellow townsman, Lew Massey, at the arena here last night.

Bass, while not as impressive as in most of his other fights, clearly was Massey's master throughout the milling, punishing the Italian severely with a body attack in the closing rounds, after Lew held him fairly even for the first five rounds.

HEAVY RAINS ARE SWEEPING PORTUGAL

MANY TOWNS AND VILLAGES ISOLATED, HEAVY CROP LOSSES INFLICTED

Lisbon, Jan. 6.—(U.P.)—Heavy rains, whipped by gales of storm velocity, swept Portugal today, isolating many towns and villages and inflicting heavy crop losses.

Two persons were known dead. Injuries were numerous, and many persons were reported gravely hurt.

The wind storms began during the week-end and showed some signs of abating today. The river Mondega overflowed between Coimbra and Figueira da Foz, ruining crops in the district. The flood covered an area four miles wide along the river in central Portugal, but residents of the region were warned in time to evacuate.

Fishing on the north coast was halted by the gales. Damage to crops and property was enormous, and first estimates ran into millions of dollars.
